Target Market Determination (TMD) Term Deposit

Description of likely objectives, financial situation and needs of consumers in the target market

This product is designed for customers who:

- Likely objectives: are seeking a low-risk investment with higher returns relative to a savings account for their own deposit or funds held by a Self-Managed Super Fund; ability to access the funds with 31 days' notice if their circumstances change (an interest penalty will be incurred); access to 100% of the amount invested at the end of the agreed term.
- Likely financial situation: have a minimum $5,000 to invest; have a wide range of income with savings at a level such that they are unlikely to require access to their investment; wide range of employment statuses; wide range of spending habits; wide range of ages and life stages.
- Likely needs: have the ability to open an account in their own name or that of their Self-Managed Super Fund; generate capital growth through payment of interest; ensure their return is locked in to avoid any reduction in interest payments.

Classes of consumers for whom the product is unsuitable

• Customers with an account balance less than $5,000; who are seeking a regular income stream; who require immediate access to funds.

Explanation of why the product is likely to be consistent with the likely objectives, financial situation and needs of consumers in the target market

Customers who take out a term deposit will benefit from a higher interest rate and lower fees than a transactional account, whilst maintaining limited access to their funds.
